Minnetrista Donor Wall Design Pack

Jordan Corona, Ben Grayson, Samantha Stapleton, Jake White

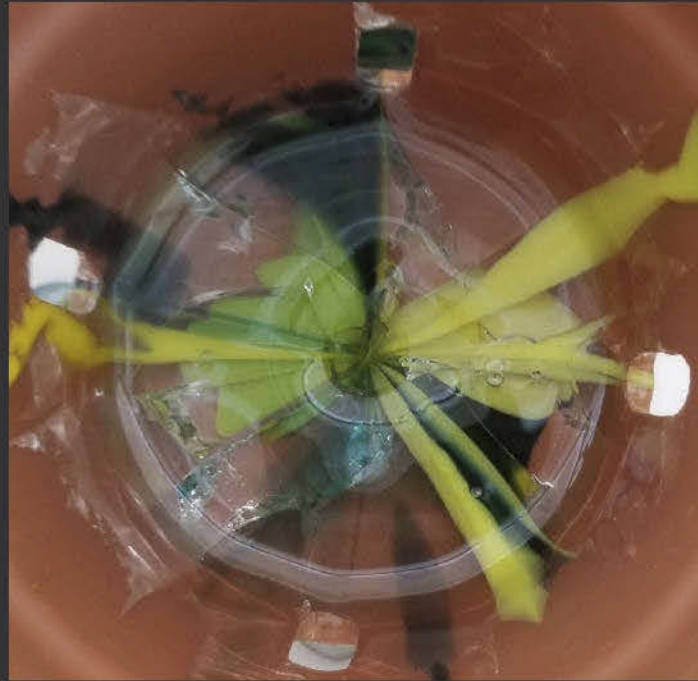

Schematic Design Phase

- Swirl Ball Jars created from the switching of glass colors
- Colors and structure inspired by the iconic Catalyst sculpture
- Voronoi pattern encapsulates all of these elements

Process

- Cutdown strips of Colored Glass placed into Ceramic Pots
- Each Pot has drilled holes to melt through when fired
- Different holes allow for different colors to emerge
- Different stacking methods create different melting patterns
- Poured flat into a "Tile" or into a Form

Process

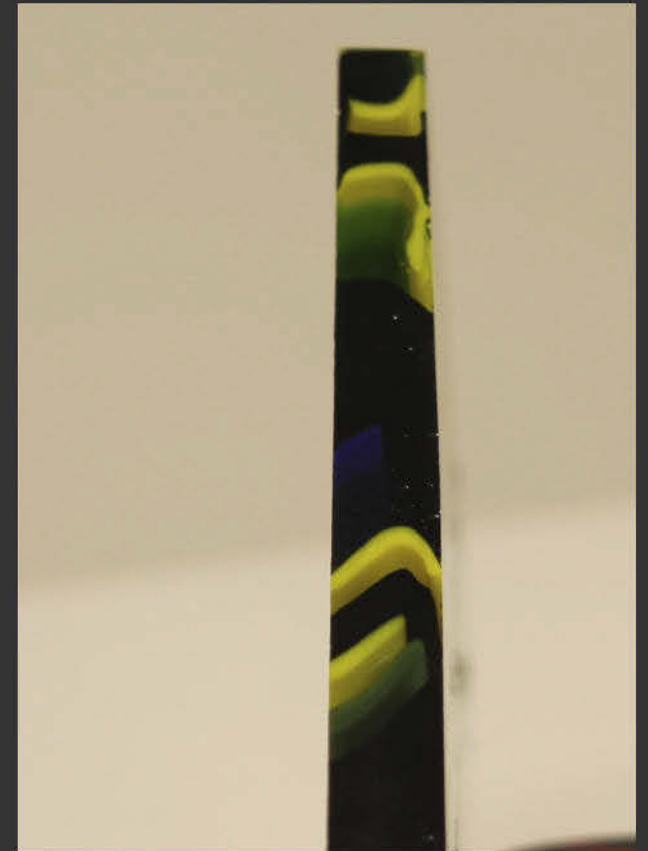

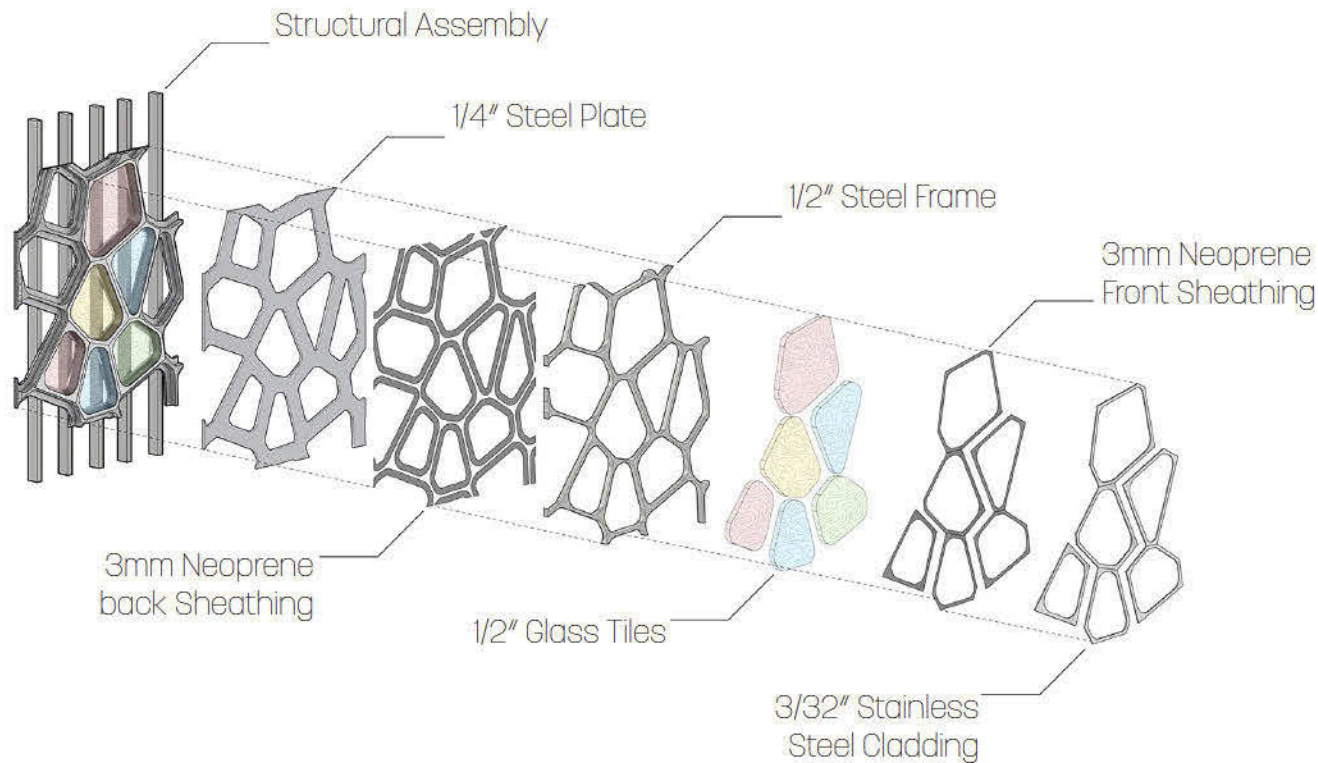

- Flowerpot Draining didn't produce the desired transparencies or distinct patterns.
- Simplifying the process -- removing gravity and flowerpots from the equation -- allowed for more direct control over colors and patterns.
- Our first experiment involved stacking glass panes horizontally, alternating colored and clear pieces.
- This resulted in a finely controlled linear pattern and excellent transparency to observe the glass's properties beneath the surface.
- We continued this process with other colors, pattern orientations, and transparencies, confirming the process is adjustable for all three of these properties.

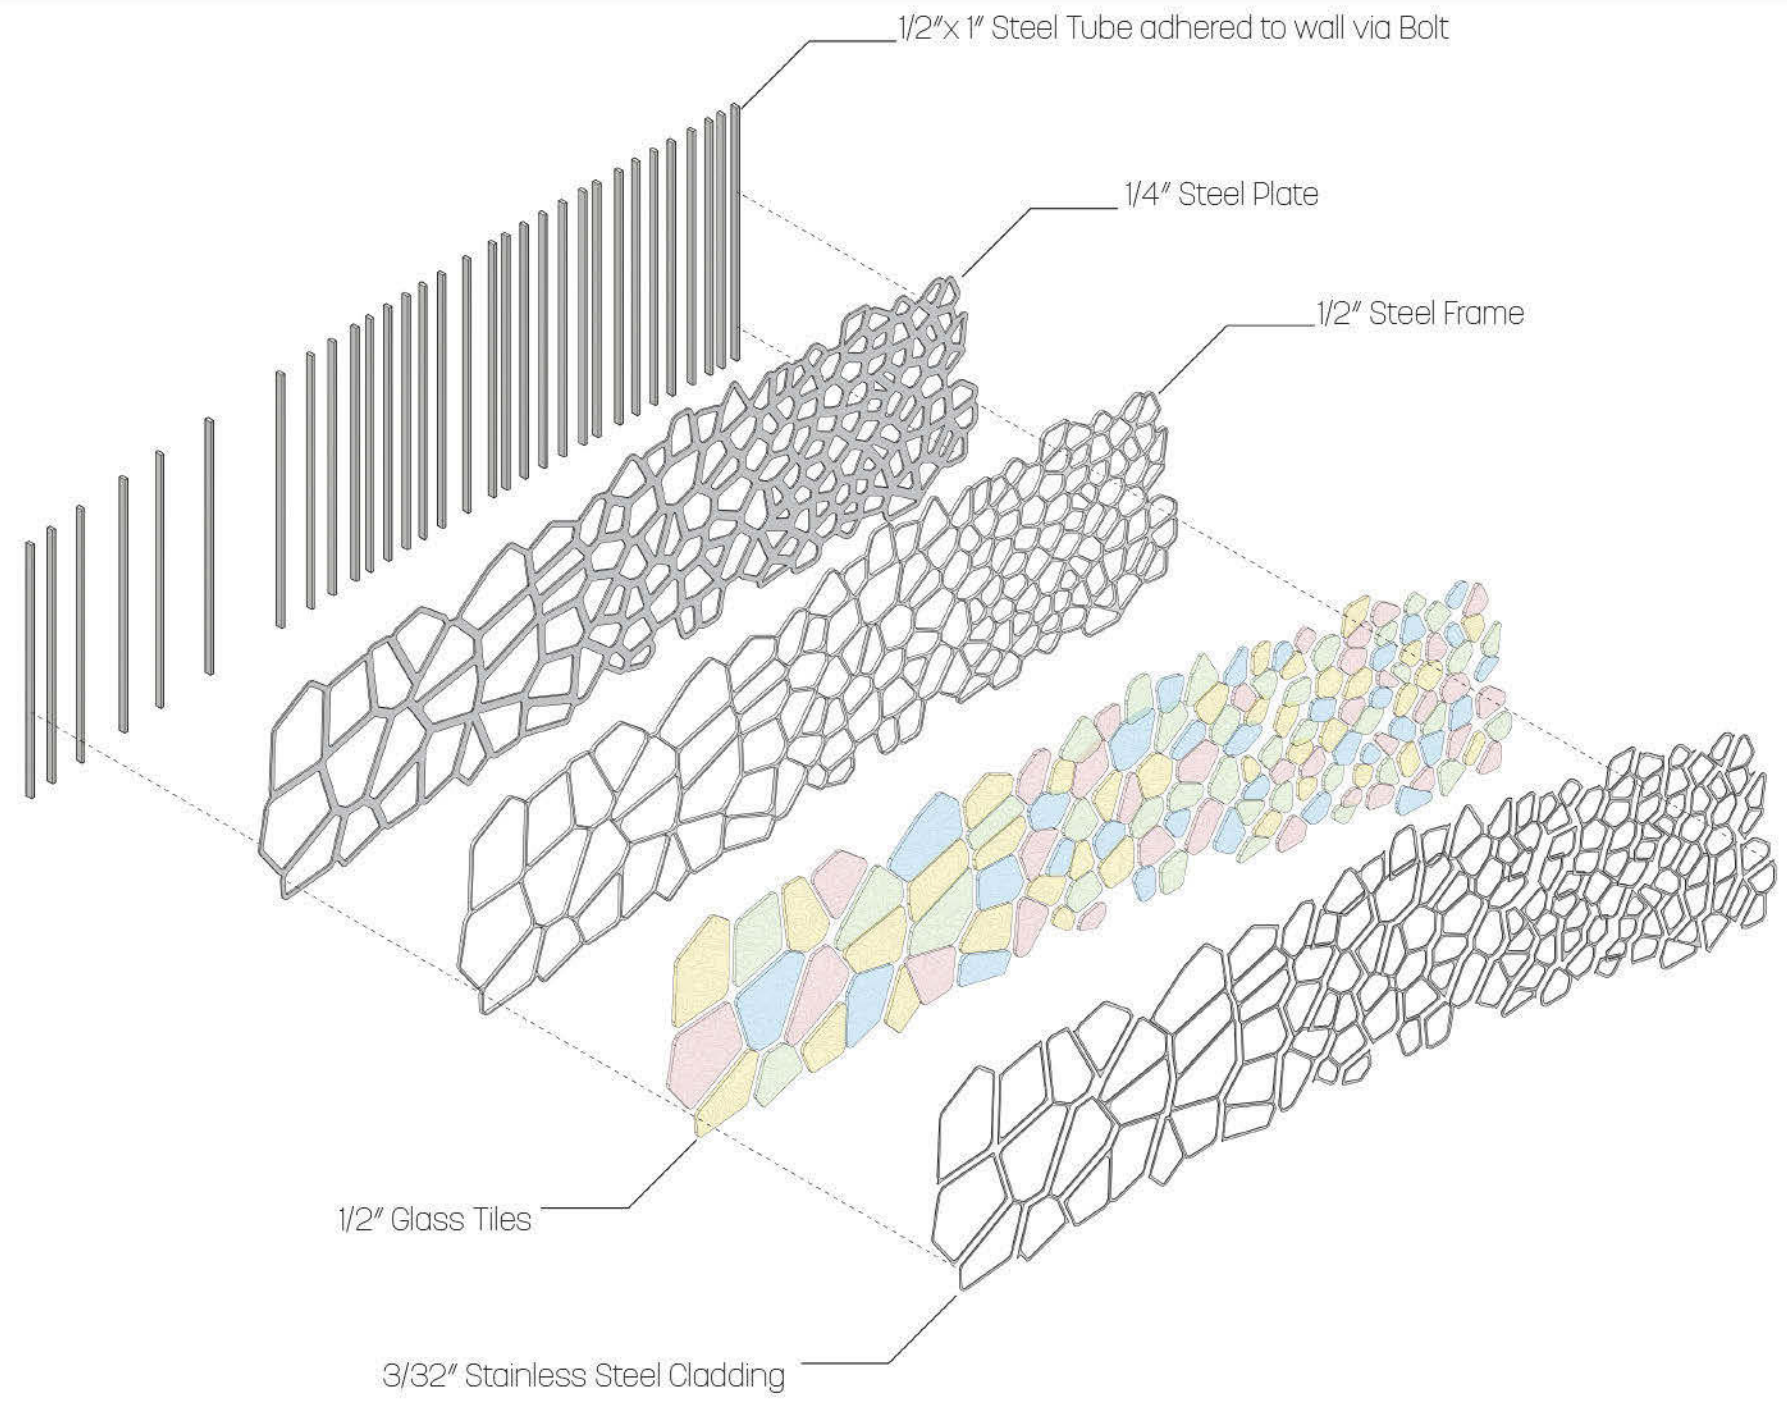

- Wall Offset totals less than 2" (1 27/32")
- Wall Mounted objects cannot extend past 4" without Ground Mounted Cane Detector(s)
- Individual Glass Tiles /Metal Cladding can be removed via Bolt Connection
- Allows for Donors to choose their color or swirl technique prior to donating
- Cleaning / Repair Purposes
- New Name Installation
- Different Panel Implementation
- Modular System allows for Donor Wall Growth
- Larger Scheme clearly determined prior to accommodate for more donors.
